EXPORTS

To South American Country Double Within the Last Few Years.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—Exports to South America have shown a phenomenal gain in the fiscal year which ends with the present month. Prior to 1911 the total value of exports to South America had never reached the 100 million mark. In 1911, the total was, speaking in round terms, 109 million dollars, and in the current fiscal year which ends with the present month, seems likely to be about 135 million dollars, having more than doubled since 1905.

Argentina is the country showing by far the largest gain in our exports to South America. The figures now available in the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, indicates that the total exports to Argentina for the complete fiscal year will amount to about 55 million dollars, against 28 1-2 million in 1905, having thus considerably more than doubled in the period in question. To Brazil the total exports for the fiscal year will exceed 30 million dollars in value, against 11 million in 1905, an even larger percentage of gain than in the case of Argentina. To Chile the total for the year will amount to about 15 million dollars, against 5 1-2 million in 1905, also a gain of nearly 200 per cent. To Uruguay the figures of exports for the fiscal year which ends with the present month will aggregate about 7 million dollars in value, against a little less than 2 million in 1905.

This increase in exports to South America, while occurring in a large number of articles, is especially notice in lumber, leather, mineral oils and railway material. For example, the exports of lumber to Argentina in the ten months ending with April last, amounted to 5 3-4 million dollars in value, against 4 million in the corresponding months of last year; and those to other South America countries over 2 million dollars, against about 2 million in the corresponding period of the preceding year. Illuminating oil exported to Argentina in the ten months in question amounted to about 24 million gallons, against about 13 million in the corresponding months a year ago, and lubricating oil, over 4 million gallons, against less than 3 million in the same months of last year. Glazed kid leather exported to Argentina in the ten months of 1912 amounted to over one million dollars in value, against 370 thousand dollars in the corresponding months of the preceding year. Automobiles exported to South America as a whole amounted in the ten months in question to 1 1-2 million dollars in value, against 688 thousand dollars in the corresponding months of the preceding year.

The total value of exports from the United States to South America as a whole was, ten years ago, in the fiscal year 1902, 38 million dollars. Five years ago, in the fiscal year 1907, it was 82 million dollars, and in the current year, as indicated above, will probably be about 135 million dollars, an increase of more than 250 per cent in the decade, and of more than fifty per cent in the last five years.

HISTORY

Of Some of Noted Churches and Gravestones in New York Given.

(By E. B. Morris).

NEW YORK, June 18.—The oldest church edifice in New York City is St. Paul's Episcopal church on the corner of Broadway and Vesey streets, and extends along Vesey street westward to Church street, which was formerly known as the Boston Road, and upon which the church fronts, instead of on Broadway. When it was built it was located in the outskirts of the northern limits of New York City, which today is in the heart of the great skyscraper and financial section of the city, twelve to fifteen miles from its northern limits. It is surrounded by a graveyard in which the first interment was made in 1763. The tombstones are mostly of brown stone and many of them are badly disintegrated. However, some of them are well preserved and the inscriptions are as legible as the day they were put on, and quite interesting. For example, here are a few taken at random, verbatim and literalism:

"In memory of Ezzel Mewall who departed this life July 11th, 1790, aged 35 years.

"Go home my friends and cease your tears;

I must lie here 'till Christ appears. Repent in time, while time you have There's no repentance in the grave."

"Here lies the body of Charles Hadley, late Armourer to ye office of ordnance, who departed this life the 26th of June, 1773, aged 48 years."

"Here lies the body of James Davis, late Smith to the Royal Artillery, who departed this life the 17th day of December, 1763, aged 33 years."

On the Broadway side of the church under a colonial portico, added to the rear of the church after Broadway ceased to be a cowpath and became a street, lies the mortal remains of Maj. General Richard Montgomery, which were removed from Quebec and deposited here July 8, 1818, marked by a marble tablet upon which is inscribed: "This monument is erected by the order of Congress 25th day of January, 1774, to transmit to posterity a grateful remembrance of the patriotism, conduct, enterprise and perseverance of Major General Richard Montgomery, who after a series of successes amidst the most discouraging difficulties, fell in the attack on Quebec, 31st December, 1775, aged 37 years."

The ground occupied by the church and cemetery is worth several millions of dollars, and is owned by the Trinity church, which also occupies a large square at the head of Wall street, a few blocks farther down Broadway. This church, Trinity, is possibly the richest in the world. It owns a skyscraper office building on lower Broadway worth several millions of dollars in addition to a large amount of other property.

Every day at noon services are held in these churches, which are surprisingly well attended considering the neighborhood they are in. They have good music, ritualistic services and a short sermon at these services daily, to which all are welcome. The services are very similar to those of the Catholic church and I suppose they still adhere to the same ritual and forms used by the Church of England, under whose authority this church was established, at the time it was built.
